THE POST OFFICE AGAIN

"RECOMMENDED THAT NEW QUARTERS BE SECURED"

But the Name of the Recommender is Withheld—Another Chapter of an Interesting Serial Postmaster Fanset is in receipt of a communication from the First Assistant Postmaster-General, advising him that it has been recommended that the location of the Glendale postoffice be changed. The name of the person making the recommendation is withheld.

Accompanying this communication, however, is a "joker" in the shape of another letter from the department requesting "a statement that the proposed postoffice site is satisfactory, signed by a majority of the business men of the town."

Up to the present time a majority of the business men of the town have not been found who favor the change. On the contrary, two-thirds of them will sign a petition of protest.

This is the second chapter in the serial begun a year ago, when our fellow townsmen on Brand Boulevard endeavored to have a postmaster appointed. They depended upon an influence higher up and in some ways powerful, but their "pull" was in the wrong direction and Congressman McLachlan did the square thing by recommending postmaster who would keep the postoffice (as long as he had his way about it) in the place where it would accommodate the majority of its patrons.

That our ambitious fellow townsmen on the west side would be long content to submit to a condition of affairs so distasteful to them as a reminder of defeat was not expected by us, and we have not been disappointed. The wishes of the majority of the patrons of the office is to them a minor consideration; from their viewpoint other considerations are paramount. If the people of the west side of Glendale could have a postoffice all of their own without taking it from the majority of the people who live in the center of and on the east side of the town, it would be a different proposition. At present, however, the effort to get the postoffice established on Brand Boulevard can only be the result of unadulterated selfishness.

The move is a part of the plan of the promoters of the Pacific Electric Railroad from the beginning, as that road has been and is managed by Mr. James McMillan and the powers behind him. The road has been run on a real estate basis from the first day it struck Glendale. Its promoters expected to pull the old town over to the west side, and in pursuance of this policy the branch track connecting with Glendale avenue was stolen by them after night, altho two-thirds of their patronage here (Sundays excepted, possibly, on account of Casa Verdugo) came from this branch. The proposed moving of the postoffice is another cog in the wheel of the machine (one cog is broken), and one of the "arguments" used in favor of the change is that "the postoffice is located too far from the electric road."

We do not believe that the postoffice department of the United States is run in the interest of the electric railroads or of the real estate boomers, hence we do not believe that it is going to be removed from its present site on Glendale avenue.

We understand that a petition in favor of the change has been signed by a large number of people. We have not seen it, but our sporting editor wishes us to announce that he will wager dollars to doughnuts that not one-half of the signers of such petition are patrons of the Glendale office.

Should the postoffice be removed from its present location to a point six blocks further west, it would then be within a block and a half of the city limits on that side, and over a mile distant from the eastern boundary. The present agitation of the matter has probably been hastened by the fact that papers have recently been signed guaranteeing an electric railroad on the east side within a few months, after the advent of which, with the consequent increase of the population of that section, arguments favoring a move of the postoffice to the westward would be even more diaphanous than they are at present.

One thing that would probably result from the removal of the postoffice from its present situation westward would be the establishment of another postoffice on the east side, consummation not to be desired by anyone who wishes to see Glendale a harmonious and united community.

Even if the government is required to pay a small rental for its present quarters and a still smaller sum for carrying the mail three blocks, these facts do not justify such an injustice as is contemplated. The postoffice department has properly but one duty to perform, regardless of cost, and that is to give the best possible service to all the people.

If the postoffice inspector has recommended this removal, he has demonstrated his peculiar unfitness for a position, one of the chief requirements of which is an unbiased judgment.

FOR A NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

The trustees of the Glendale High school have called a meeting of citizens to be held at the High School next Saturday evening for the purpose of getting the people to express themselves as to what they wish to do about a new High School building.

The present building, which when put up, seemed to some people to be extravagantly large, has already proved inadequate in its capacity for the number of pupils in attendance and for the varied work of the curriculum. The total enrollment now is 115. A number of new seats were added during vacation, but it is now necessary to make further additions. In the laboratory, a room 20 by 35 feet, it is necessary to have as many as 38 pupils at work there at one time, while the necessary apparatus occupies much of the space.

The grounds also are too small for those athletic exercises which are such an important part of the work of an up-to-date school, and the proposition of securing another site will also come before the meeting. Everybody interested in the High School work should endeavor to be present.

Next week we shall give some details of interest to be taken into consideration in this connection.

GLENDALE, CAL., NOVEMBER 2, 1907

The balloon business is looking up, and Senator Flint is looking after it. He is going to endeavor to get balloons into the army. To get us on a real peace footing, he should get the army into balloons.

One-third of the bean crop in Ventura has been destroyed by the rain. The bean farmer is a prosperous citizen and can stand the loss; but the bean eater who doesn't know beans must look out for adulterants.

Secretary Taft is having the time of his life in the Philippines. He has been thrown out of a carriage, gone through a bad railroad accident, and at last accounts they were getting up a typhoon for his entertainment.

We call the attention of our readers to the communication upon the dog question that appears upon another page. The old calendar makers allowed a certain season to canines, called "dog days." The Glendale dog has all seasons for his own.

Our enterprising contemporary on the Boulevard has discovered that our dog catcher is to have an automobile. We regret that the scheme has been made prematurely public; there is now good cause to fear that a bond issue for this purpose may not carry, notwithstanding the self-evident fact that the Glendale law-breaking dog is so swift that the old system of dog catching is absolutely valueless—in this climate.

For Woman

The cause of "Woman's Rights" has been powerfully reinforced by a new champion, Dr. Emmet Densmore of New York. He has written a book entitled "Sex Equality; a Solution of the Woman Problem." He takes the ground that woman is not by nature inferior to man, although acknowledging that at present and for generations past, she has by reason of her physical shortcomings, been put in that position.

He quotes in support of his theory Darwin, Herbert Spencer and other evolutionary scientists. Ages ago, he claims, woman occupied the superior position and exercised the ruling power over man. He does not, perhaps, show that this loss to the sex was a loss to the race; on the contrary, he finds that as she fell from her dominant position, she acquired those womanly qualities which have given her queenship over the hearts of the ruling sex, which she did not possess when she dominated over the material affairs of the race. Dr. Densmore sees in the increase of the avenues, being so rapidly opened to woman's advancement the promise of her gradual return to a position of equality with man. The author quotes Darwin approvingly as follows: "In order that woman should reach the same standard as man, she ought when nearly adult to be trained to energy and perseverance and to have her reason and imagination exercised to the highest point, and then she would probably transmit these qualities to her adult daughters."

The Financial Situation

Last week in Wall street will pass into history as being notable for several things. It was unprecedented. Never before has there been a condition so promising of disaster, national if not world wide in its scope, which passed with so little real damage to the public. It demonstrated a condition full of genuine encouragement. It proved first, the soundness of our money system; second, that there is in existence a large supply of currency sufficient for our needs; third, that this money is in the possession of men who will do all in their power to avert anything in the shape of a great financial disaster.

There can be no money system devised that will prevent an occasional "run" on the banks. The trouble was not caused by an actual shortage of money, for J. P. Morgan was able to assist the situation by a contribution of fifty millions which was loaned at the ordinary rate of interest, a fact which should be set down to the credit of that gentleman and his associates. The United States treasury also came to the rescue with a small portion of its immense gold reserve of over $900,000,000. This condition of the public treasury may recall the necessity which compelled the Cleveland administration to sell bonds to maintain the requisite gold reserve of $100,000,000 in the national treasury.

The trouble has not altogether passed possibly, but the situation is improving daily. The great slump in the prices of railroad, copper and other stocks was a notable one, but not altogether regrettable. The fictitious values were squeezed out, leaving the intrinsic worth of the properties on a proper basis for dividends. Meanwhile ore is being taken out of the mines, mills and factories are running overtime, railroads are extending their systems and calling for more men to do the work that is laid out for them; the farmer is gathering in abundant harvests and all is well in the world!

Chancellor Day's Attack Upon Roosevelt

Chancellor Day, of Syracuse University, has written a book. It is evidently a rather remarkable production, as its purpose is to abuse the president of the United States. He is particular to assert in the preface that his opinions are not the result of the contaminating influence of millionaires. The first thought of many would be to Dogberry Chancellor Day and "write him down an ass." But he is too important a personage to be dismissed in that manner. If we really could be assured that his opinions or "convictions" are not the natural result of "contaminating influences," we could the more readily classify him; but of this we may be permitted to doubt. He is probably sincere; most people are; it is not a rare virtue, if virtue it always is. But we really think that the chancellor's opinions are very largely the result of his peculiar position, altho he may not suspect it.

beaten tracks and begin to pass judgment upon people and things political. They are subject to theories to which facts must frequently be subordinated. They are not peculiar in this respect as a class, perhaps, but it seems to us that as a class they most frequently give public expression to such notions, and most effectually demonstrate the high regard that they have for these children of their begetting.

Mr. Day is an admirer of John D. Rockefeller and has hitherto rushed into print in defense of that well advertised gentleman who happens also to be the patron saint of the institution which pays for the more or less valuable services of Chancellor Day. The book is entitled "A Raid upon Prosperity," and the quality of it may be fairly inferred from the title and knowledge of the fact that it is an attack upon President Roosevelt. It demands "that the president stop exposing rottenness in finance and let the country settle down." The author thinks evidently that our poor old constitution is in dire danger from Mr. Roosevelt's actions.

If our knowledge of the political history of the United States is not seriously at fault, a good many of our presidents have been charged with similar destructive designs upon this venerable but so far apparently indiscreet instrument; and they have been among our best presidents, too.

A sample of Mr. Day's logical ideas is found in his expressed belief that it would be a good thing to limit the presidential term to one year! And this in the face of the fact that a good many intelligent and fairly respectable citizens are of the opinion that presidential elections come all too frequently. If Chancellor Day's book is well furnished with facts and logical deductions based upon the same, it is worthy of consideration; but if not, denunciation by the head of a liberally endowed institution of learning is no more valuable than if it emanated from the veriest fish monger of the market place!

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McIntyre, who have been visiting for some weeks in Topeka, Kan., returned home Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Andrews of Fifth street and Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Andrews' mothers, moved on Tuesday to Long Beach where they will reside in the future.

Mrs. O. M. Patterson of B street entertained Mrs. Evans and her three children on Thursday. Mr. Evans was formerly manager of the Spar Fruit Co.

Miss Birdie Shropshire, of Fifth and Everett streets, will on Saturday evening entertain a number of young friends from Los Angeles and Glendale with a birthday party.

Rev. G. R. Graff and wife moved to Highland, where Mr. Graff has a charge. They are highly pleased with the reception given them and are enthusiastic over the work there.

Dinner guests on Tuesday of Mrs. E. D. Goode were Mrs. P. W. Parker and Mrs. G. E. Myres of Los Angeles and Mrs. J. Frackleton and Mrs. Kightlinger of Eagle Rock. Decorations of autumn blossoms were employed.

BORN—Mr. and Mrs. Roland Beers of Third street are rejoicing over the arrival on Wednesday, October 30th, of a fine ten and a half pound boy. Friends declare that the smile carried around by the happy father just won't come off.

On Friday evening Miss Winifred

Sadler of North Glendale entertained the sophomores and other schoolmates with unique Hallowe'en party. Decorations and refreshments were in keeping with the season and a gay time was the result.

Mrs. L. D. Bates and little daughter Marion, who have been visiting for the past three months in Sioux City and Des Moines, have returned. Mrs. S. L. Bird of Des Moines, Mrs. Bates' mother, accompanied them and will remain for the winter.

At the Baptist church Sunday the subject of sermons will be: At 11 a.m., "The Beautiful Gate," and at 7:30 p.m., "The Strait Gate." We have been specially blessed of late in the interest and attendance at our evening service. We invite you to come and enjoy these with us.

Hugh C. Gibson, secretary and superintendent of the International Sunday Schools of Southern California, spoke on Sunday night in the Methodist church upon the importance of organized Sabbath School work. A good sized audience of workers in the church listened to the address.

Members of Carnation Rebekah Lodge were royally entertained on Thursday night in Los Angeles by the ladies of Reba Lodge. Invitations read "good clothes no object" and a hard-times party was the result, participants in costume. Refreshments and music and Halloween pranks were features.

The regular meeting of the P. E. O. on Monday evening occurred in the home of Mrs. Frank Albright, Orange street; Mrs. C. E. Russell, the president, had the literary program in charge on English Art and Artists. Work presented was well appreciated and there was good attendance of members.

Miss Dorothy Gould of Verdugo Road entertained a number of her friends in a most informal way on Hallowe'en night, a unique ghost party being the result. Invitations were in water colors, of spooks, bats and witches. Refreshments were served in company with pumpkin heads, and pie and doughnuts were the rule.

Mrs. B. H. Nichols entertained on Hallowe'en night at her home on Adams street for her sons, Frederick and Benjamin, the majority of guests being members of the K. S. T. club and their little girl friends. Black cats and bats and grinning pumpkins were features, as was also a witch's brew, steaming hot, served with dainties suggestive of the season.

Union High School Notice

As it is absolutely necessary to have additional room for the accommodation of the students of Glendale Union High School District before another school year, the clerk of the Board of Trustees has been instructed to post notices calling a meeting of the voters of said district for the purpose of discussing the question as to whether a new building shall be constructed or an addition be made to the old one. Such meeting will be held

IN THE SCHOOL BUILDING, COR. OF FOURTH STREET AND BRAND BOULEVARD, IN THE CITY OF GLENDALE, ON SATURDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 9, AT 7:30.

It is important that the voters in each district interested in the High School be present, as this meeting will have power to instruct the Board to call an election to issue bonds for the above named purpose.

E. D. GOODRICH, Clerk.

Free Lecture

Prof. J. W. Winsett will deliver a free lecture on music at Presbyterian Church, Glendale, Friday evening November 8th. After the lecture, he will organize a class in singing.

REV. DR. HAYWOOD ON PORTO RICO.

Dr. B. S. Haywood, of Porto Rico, delivered a lecture on Sunday morning in the Methodist church to a large and most appreciative audience. When the time came to stop many begged him to go on and give more of the illuminating story of beautiful Porto Rico, which the speaker did, in spite of the fact that his wife was lying at the point of death in a Los Angeles hospital, having been operated upon only a few hours previous. He spoke of the intelligence and loyalty of the Porto Ricans, of their intense desire for knowledge and the immense growth of schools there during the nine years that Old Glory has floated over the islands. About every Porto Rican home, of high or low degree, has a picture of "Father William" (President McKinley), whose countenance they revere. The good "Padre," as they love to call him, is held there in memory as dear as that of the colored people for Abraham Lincoln. Rev. Haywood exhibited exquisite pieces of drawing done by girls under fourteen, and a forty-dollar panama hat, made by a little black boy of twelve years. He exhibited many pictures of great interest, and told with strength and pathos the story of "Old Mary," whose picture was shown.

Rev. Haywood expects to return to the Islands in about two weeks. Mrs. Haywood will spend about six months in San Bernardino after leaving the hospital. She is well-known for important work done for the Methodist church in the island possession, where she has tolled "In His Name" in spite of broken health.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Jones, have returned from visiting their old home and friends in Missouri. Altho they enjoyed their visit greatly they are glad to be in California again. Mr. Jones reports that the fruit crop throughout Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska has been an absolute failure during the past season on account of unusually late frosts; and that apples are worth five cents a piece.

The drought cut short the crops in the Southern part of Missouri, altho in other sections the farmers are doing well. Farm values have advanced greatly in the last ten years and in Kansas City, real estate and rents are high as in Los Angeles. The travelers had to lay over twenty-four hours in Kansas City, in order to secure berths, the travel westward now being very heavy and nearly everybody seems to contemplate coming to the coast.

While in Missouri, Mr. Jones went to Shelbina and visited Mr. Puckett who spent last winter and the early part of the summer in Glendale. He found that gentleman doing well, but speaking in longing terms of California, towards which he hopes again to turn his steps.

Report of a Traveler

Mr. R. S. Bassett, he who "sells the earth," and one of the friends and admirers of Glendale, called on us the other day. Mr. Bassett has been making a visit for the past month or so up in the Northwest territory of Canada, around Calgary and Edmonton. He reports business and financial conditions the same all along the coast and in Canada, as they are here.

Everywhere there has been the same speculation in town lots and the same falling off in the demand for them for speculative purposes, that is noticeable in Southern California. But there as here, there has been no slump in prices and no rush to sell. The farmers are prosperous, railroads are being extended rapidly, great projects are afoot and thousands of men are wanted to do the work.

RECEPTION TO NEW PASTOR.

The reception given on Tuesday evening in the Methodist-Episcopal church for the Rev. N. J. Burton and his family was well attended by members and patrons of the church. Potted plants and chrysanthemums beautified the platform and parlors, and a representative of each church society stood in the receiving line as follows: For the Aid Society, Mrs. M. Z. Remsburg, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Russell and Mrs. G. E. Ward, Miss Lillian Ward, Mrs. Prudence Potts, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. D. McGillivray, Mrs. R. D. Goss; Foreign Missions, Mrs. Julia Beers; Home Missions, Mrs. Josephine Byrket; Sunday School, Thos. Watson; Epworth League, M. Z. Remsburg; Board of Stewards, Mr. Lennox; Board of Trustees, Frank Campbell. Among addresses of welcome was one given by the Rev. Stone, to which Rev. Burton responded feelingly, touched by the kind words and the warm welcome extended on every side.

Refreshments consisted of fruitade and delicious cakes and wafers.

Attempted Burglary

Tuesday evening last while Mr. E. V. Parker and wife were at Mr. Parker's hardware store in the Watson Block, their residence on Isable (I) street was entered, bureau drawers opened and things generally turned upside down, presumably in a search for money, which fortunately proved fruitless. Entrance had been made by the back door which had evidently been opened by a pass key. This is the second time Mr. Parker's house has been entered in a similar manner.

These jobs indicate the existence in Glendale of at least a pair of vicious amateurs who are preparing the way for a term in the penitentiary, unless a compromise should be made in favor of the Reform School. It is to be hoped that a clear case can be made against them soon for they are a menace to the community.

SURPRISE AND HOUSEWARMING.

One of the happiest events of Hallowe'en week was the grand surprise and housewarming given on Wednesday evening to Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Goss in their new home on Fifth street, by sisters of the P. E. O. and the irrepressible B. I. L.s, as the surprise was undoubtedly complete, the merriment started off right and the fun-makers enjoyed many Hallowe'en pranks. The seasonable supper of pumpkin pie, doughnuts, coffee, etc., was not the least of the evening's enjoyments.

The National W. C. T. U. will meet in annual convention at Nashville, Tenn., November 8-13. According to custom Thursday, November 7th, will be observed as the day for conference and prayer for the convention.

Glendale W. C. T. U. will observe this custom by meeting on November 7th at 2:30 p.m. in the lecture room of the M. E. church. It is hoped that all members will be present. All interested will be welcome.

The Public ForumThe Dog Nuisance

EDITOR NEWS:—Within a radius of three hundred feet from where these lines are being penned, are regularly domiciled eleven dogs of varying degrees of blood and lineage, including all sizes, ages and genders. They are entirely unrestricted in their movements and roam the streets, yards and alleyways freely at all hours of the day and night. Their special mission on earth seems to be—if indeed they have a mission—to rend the air with howls and shrieks, and incidentally to awaken the echoes in the dead hours of night.

Among the particular curs to which allusion is here made, this propensity is being indulged to the limit, if we may judge from results; but it is not until visiting delegations from other neighborhoods arrive on the ground (as they often do at night) and a dozen or more of them congregate under your bedroom window, or in the garden among your choice flowers, that one is able to lie awake and ruminant calmly upon the beauties of life in a suburban town thus unfortunately situated, and given over to the culture of dogs.

These curs of Glendale apparently are sui generis, being devoid of all the higher attributes usually ascribed to the dog kind, such as courage, fidelity and the home-guarding instinct. They are in a class by themselves, and while it seems rank injustice to mention them in the same breath with decent dogs, the force of circumstances compels us to make this invidious distinction. The average Glendale dog, so far as the observation of the writer goes (and he has often been compelled to sit up and take notice) is a coward, a sneak thief and a low-down, villainous, mangy pup. The echo of a step on the pavement at night or a mere shadow passing under a street lamp is sufficient cause for alarm among them; and when the cut that first discovers this condition begins to bark, the whole miserable pack is tapped off from a distance of two blocks and pandemonium at once begins. The writer is often assailed and menaced by barking dogs while walking through his own grounds.

Indeed, barking has become such a habit with many of these brutes, that when overtaken with exhaustion they lie down and bark in their sleep. But upon the first appearance of dawn they arise again and, refreshed, commence barking more furiously, as if fearful they may have lost some time during the hours of unconsciousness.

Although somewhat of an invalid himself, the writer, having come here for the quietude of Glendale and its invigorating climate (the above are the expressions made use of by the boomers who induced him to come) has tried to use philosophy in this matter and, wait patiently in the hope that the dogs would gradually decrease in numbers (the average life of a cur being not more than fifteen years) and by so waiting would in time be able to obtain the amount of sleep required for the preservation of good health. But bless you, where one dog dies a whole litter of pups is born, and the end seems further off than ever.

But if these things must be, how would it do, in view of existing conditions here, and the general depression that prevails, to change the name of Glendale to Dogville and inaugurate a series of bench shows, a leading feature of which should be tests of endurance in barking. In order to insure perfect fairness in these exhibitions, it might be advisable to choose judges from among the non-dog-producing class, who would not therefore rest under the suspicion of being competitors, or in any way likely to be biased on account of the ties of consanguinity or other prejudicial relationship to the dog.

BRN TROVATO.

No Vote at Redlands

The following account of the failure of the attempt of Mr. Linnard, the new manager of the Hotel Casa Loma to obtain a hotel license is from the Riverside Enterprise of the 16th inst.:

"The long-mooted question as to whether a license shall be granted to the Casa Loma hotel to serve wines with meals reached a crisis this afternoon when Manager D. M. Linnard formally withdrew his request to have the question submitted to a plebiscite. Since taking hold of the Casa Loma, Manager Linnard has been contending for the privilege to serve wine to bona fide guests with meals after the plan which prevails at Mr. Linnard's other hotels at Pasadena and Long Beach, both of which cities have prohibition ordinances which in other respects are much like the one in force at Redlands. It has been agreed that the city trustees here were pledged not to grant any licenses to sell liquor under any restrictions whatsoever and Mr. Linnard did not ask them to break this pledge; but he claimed that from the information which he had he was satisfied that a majority of the people would be agreeable to the sort of restricted privilege for which he was asking and he petitioned the trustees to submit the matter to the people for a decision. The ultra prohibitionists, however, insisting that the pledge under which the trustees had accepted office forbade them giving any countenance whatever to the license proposition, even to the extent of submitting the matter to vote. This was evidently the view taken of the question by a majority of the trustees themselves, and this afternoon when the temper of the board became apparent, Mr. Linnard withdrew his petition rather than let it come to a vote and was defeated.

"Prominent men here who are and always have been in favor of prohibition, declared tonight that the action of the trustees would simply mean that Redlands would vote a saloon license at the next city election and not a few did not hesitate to say that they would give the open saloon proposition their support. It has been a long time since so much feeling has been evinced over a municipal question. Mr. Linnard places his experience as testimony in support of the proposition that no hotel manager can make a resort town of Redlands unless allowed to sell wine with meals. The Prohibitionists insist that to grant any concessions which may be regarded as special privileges would be to get-away from the spirit of prohibition, and that they are accordingly opposed to any modification of the present hard and fast prohibition ordinance. It now appears to be up to the voters, and the next city election is awaited with interest."

A real and no mistake, beauty show is "The Rollicking Girl," the big musical show that appears at the Los Angeles Theatre this Sunday evening for a week's engagement. A WATCH THAT NEEDED WATCHING.

Had to Be Cranked up Every Fifteen Minutes to Keep Moving.

A jeweler on Fifth street sold me a watch the other day. I withhold his name for fear he may come around and stop his paper.

He said it was one of the best time-pieces he had in stock, and that L. J. Wilde, the capitalist, wanted to buy it, but did not feel like putting so much money into a little thing that he could carry around in his vest pocket. He also stated that the Coronado Beach company had for a long time been trying to trade him the Hotel del Coronado for it and pay him the difference in cash, but that he had declined because the kitchen range smoked when the wind blew from the south and he didn't like the arrangement of the bar and billiard rooms in the basement. He said that if he could sell the watch to some prominent gentleman like myself it would be a great advertisement for him and in a short time he would have the entire trade of the bong-tong.

It was really a beautiful watch, and while the machinery jarred considerably, the jeweler said that that was due to the piston-rod throwing the automatic coupler into the solar plexus of the walking beam, as in all new watches, but after the bubbles had worn off the castings, the damper would work more freely and operate the toggle-joint which controlled the air brakes and tonneau attachment, and after that the watch would make no more noise than a flat-wheel street car rounding a sharp curve at midnight. The watch, he said, had seventeen jewels, and a tiara and the back of the case could be used to fry eggs in when out camping. Its fighting weight was about two pounds and four ounces.

The case bore the trade mark of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Limited, of Philadelphia, and the intestines were manufactured by the Cleveland Stove company, one of the most reliable concerns in the country.

I told the jeweler that I liked the watch all right, but that as I had recently had my hair cut and been to other expenses, money was a little tight with me. He said that that being the case he would let me have the time assassinator for $3.75, and I walked out with it throbbing and chugging against my short ribs.

I guess the watch was pretty highly geared, for it got me home three hours before dinner, and when I was partaking of my five o'clock meal the watch said it was midnight. By bed time my new purchase indicated that it was day after tomorrow and when I arose in the morning and consulted its clean shaved face, I discovered that it had brought a note against me due three weeks ahead of time and the rent collector was sitting on the front steps waiting to collect for month after next.

I phoned the jeweler about it and he said to blow out the fuse or else throw sand in the works to check up its speed until he arrived with a cold chisel and hammer to see what was the matter with it.

He charged me by the hour for the work, timing himself by my watch and he had three weeks' wages coming to him when he got the thing slowed down, and he only missed one car. He said the governor belt had slipped, spraining the fly wheel in one wing and that the increased speed of the vibrator had worn the hair spring bald-headed. The main spring had also evaporated, causing the overhead pulleys to become hot in the collar. I was also hot in the collar.

After the jeweler had tightened up a few bolts, nailed a boot heel on the brake, repacked the journals with oiled waste, inserted new fish plates and put new tires on the wheels, the watch purred softly and commenced to climb back over the calendar. Every once in a while it would give a death rattle, but it would rally and the sparks would fly as it settled down to an even gait. It had to be cranked up about every fifteen minutes and I grew pale and lost weight sitting up nights keeping the thing going.

Finally I decided that time was nothing to me, so I nailed the watch up in the pantry, put a hopper on it, attached a crank and we are now using it for a coffee grinder. The man who sold me the watch is out at his shack at False Bay and is afraid to come to town.

A LESSON IN ASTRONOMY FOR BEGINNERS.

Before the moon begins to shine in the early evening again the beginner in the study of astronomy who wishes to get a few practical pointers in regard to it may do so by looking upward about 8 o'clock on the first clear evening. The display is not so brilliant as at some other seasons, but still there are several stars of the first magnitude visible, and a number of other interesting features.

Most noticeable, perhaps, is the milky way, stretching from northeast to southwest, a wide pathway in the heavens of small stars; that is apparently small, for there may be great suns among them, but at such inconceivable distances that only a dim point of light reaches our human vision. In this broad pathway of star-dust, two first magnitude stars are located. The one almost directly overhead is Deneb, situated at the head of Cygnus, the Swan or "Northern Cross." This interesting constellation stands lengthways of the milky way pointing upward in this shining pathway. Just outside of and toward the north from a line drawn between the two outside stars in the head of the cross, is a celebrated "double star" known to astronomers as 61 Cygni, one of two stars of the sixth magnitude, which are in such close proximity to each other as to appear double to the naked eye. This was one of the first of the fixed stars to have its distance approximated and is assumed to be one of the nearest to the earth. Its distance away is measured in billions of miles, however. Further down toward the southwest, is Altair in the constellation of the Eagle.

Outside of the Milky Way to the westward, constituting the point of a triangle with Deneb and Altair, is Vega, one of the brightest stars in the heavens. Down low in the southwest is the constellation of Sagittarius, a dipper-shaped group of stars. In this constellation, until recently, blood red, Mars had his apparent habitation, but has now dropped far behind and glows in the sky to the eastward.

Turning toward the northwest, the bright star Capella can be seen rising up over the mountains, behind which the bowl of the great dipper is hidden. Beginning with Capella and counting five second magnitude stars upward to a point east of the zenith, the eye encounters the lowermost star of the square of Andromeda, within which may be discerned dimly by good eyes one of the most interesting of the nebulae, or star clusters.

Halfway down from zenith to horizon, in the eastern sky, hang the Pleiades and below this beautiful little constellation, the "Gypsy Star," Aldebaran, is coming up out of the East. Save only the planet Mars, there is not much of conspicuous interest in the sky to the southward, but as the endless procession of the bright denizens of the universe move on in their apparent course from east to west along the ecliptic, new visions of brightness appear, so that the interested observer need never find the passing show devoid of mighty interest.

COLLIERS ON THE JAPANESE AND STRAWBERRIES.

Wallace Irwin, in an article in last week's number of Colliers Weekly, devoted to the Japanese on the Pacific Coast, has the following of local interest:

"Ten years ago L. Mihara came to San Francisco to attend the High School. His health gave out after three years and he went south. He wandered out from Los Angeles to Tropico where he found the Americans had a supply of artesian water and were building up a little strawberry industry. He had some capital and leased six acres already planted. So well he prospered that the news was carried back to Florin; forthwith, the Japanese began to float into Tropico. The American strawberry farmers welcomed this new help, for they had been hard put to harvest their minute crop with women from Los Angeles and schoolchildren on vacation. A season taught them what every one learns who deals with the Japanese in California—that they are bad servants but great masters; that few Japanese work well for a white man. A farmer with a taste for statistics kept watch on two gangs of Japanese, one employed by an American, the other farming on a lease. He found that while the hirelings were picking four crates of berries, the lords had picked sixteen. The share system followed. The business grew beyond the needs of Los Angeles; American owners and Japanese lessees united in 1904 to form the Berry Growers' association. Then only 125 acres in the vicinity of Tropico was in berries. The association reached northward and eastward for business; and forthwith the desert blossomed as the rose. Long stretches of land which had grown nothing but cactus became Oriental gardens; Tropico and the neighboring town of Glendale had a real estate boom. In 1907 the Tropico association marketed the product of 1600 acres in the San Fernando and the neighboring valley of the San Gabriel. Although three out of five directors in this association are Americans, practically every acre is worked by a Japanese. Eighty-five per cent. of them farm by direct lease, and the rest on shares. Mihara has become a magnate. Of course, he runs a store and an informal banking business; and Japanese head men do that. He controls the labor of about two thousand men, and he himself farms many acres. Last year he went suddenly back to Japan and returned with a wife—a little tearose-colored woman whose beauty is town tradition in Tropico."

The Americans trust Mihara; when, at one stage of his operations, he was a little squeezed for funds they went to his assistance. All the more cheerfully do they endorse his honesty because they find most Japanese chronic contract breakers, constitutionally unable to keep an agreement.

One needs to see Tropico and Gardeña to realize the economy, the attention to small detail, with which these Japanese farm.

HALLOWEEN FESTIVITIES.

The largest effort in the Hallowe'en line given during the entire week's jollification was that of the Young People's society of the First Baptist church, given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cole, Brand boulevard. Elaborate decorations in keeping with the times consisted of sheet curtains about the porch and myriads of jolly-faced Jack o'lanterns. Glowing about the "punch-bowl" was a mammoth pumpkin head. The rooms were filled with flowers and fruits and vegetables representing a prosperous autumn. Sheet ghosts and black-gowned witches flitted through the crowd, there being about one hundred in attendance. There was fortune-telling and a contest of threading pumpkin seeds, in which Chas. Brown won the consolation, and Chas. Lund the head prizes. Rev. Stone told a remarkable ghost story, and fun and frolic held sway for several hours. Music was furnished by the Miller boys string band.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

On Thursday evening a very charming dinner party was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Anderson, in their bungalow home on Cedar and Fourth. Large pumpkin heads grinned at the guests from corners and mantles, and autumn leaves and flowers combined with candle light beautified the rooms. Table decorations were replete with originality and suggestions of the season. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Monroe, Mrs. Mabel Hackman, Mrs. Newcomb, Miss Almee Barber, Mr. Edward Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Fraley, Blythe Monroe, Maybel Newcomb, Mary Elizabeth Anderson and the host and hostess. Music and Hallowe'en games furnished amusement.

Miss Ellen and Miss Amaretta Sharp entertained the Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at their residence on Cypress street Tuesday with an all-day meeting. Many dainty, useful articles were made for the domestic table for the church bazaar to be given next month.

GHOST PARTY.

One of the merriest and jolliest parties given by the Epworth League of the First Methodist-Episcopal church this fall was the ghost party given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt's, Wednesday evening. Ghosts of all sizes, ages and descriptions were very much in evidence. Pedestrians on Central avenue about eight-thirty o'clock were startled to see twenty white robed figures moving slowly and silently up the avenue towards the Engelhardt residence. Each ghost carried a Jack o'lantern which emitted a weird glow as the figures moved along. Two little ghosts, Miss Hilda Engelhardt and Miss Marjorie Imler, opened the door noiselessly and motioned the guests upstairs, where another young ghost, Eugene Imler, bowed them to the different rooms where wraps were laid aside. Mrs. J. H. Stamler, Mrs. Joseph Marple, and Mrs. Clyde Carmack assisted Mrs. Engelhardt in the entertainment of the merrymakers. Dainty refreshments covered from her recent illness to accompany her daughter, Mrs. J. Will Gould, to her ranch home, at Burbank where she will remain indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. Aden McWhorter and little daughters, who have been the guests of Mr. McWhorter's mother, Mrs. A. J. McWhorter, for several weeks, returned to their home in Fresno Saturday.

Rev. D. M. McCunn will go to Los Angeles Sunday, to take his charge on Boyle Heights. His family will not leave until the middle of the week. Rev. McFarland, of Alhambra, will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, Sunday morning.

Chas. Kline is erecting a concrete incubator house, dimensions 16x20. The house will be divided into twenty sections, each section holding five hundred eggs, making ten thousand eggs for one hatch. Mr. Kline expects to finish the house by the first of January. He is also building seventy-two pens, each pen holding fifty chickens.

The Ladies' Aid, of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Albert Erickson, Tuesday afternoon. Papers were read by Mesdames Bear, I. A. Wood and D. M. McCunn on the "Mormons of Utah," being the subject for the afternoon. Mrs. McCunn, who will leave next week for her home at Los Angeles, was presented with a three-piece china set. About thirty-five ladies were present.

A bank meeting was held Tuesday evening in the I. O. F. hall. The committee that conferred with the Columbia Trust company gave a favorable report. The building site has not yet been fully decided upon. $2000 more toward the subscription lists was given at the meeting and it is the wish of the people that the control of the stock be held in Burbank. Another meeting will be held next Monday evening, when they expect to become an organized body.

Ed. A. Fischer, county inspector of apiarists, filed on Monday his report for the month, and it showed that but little foul brood had been discovered in the districts he had visited, and prompt measures have been taken to eradicate these stands where it has obtained a foothold. The inspector examined 1619 stands, in Ausa Verde, Ravenna and Palmdale, and found but forty-one stands where there were foul brood. Some of these were ordered destroyed, while others treated with the McEvoy process.

The Palm Leaf Club met at the home of Messrs. Blake Kendall and Will Hoist Thursday evening. A number of outside friends were invited. The house throughout was decorated in pumpkins and yellow, suggesting Hallowe'en. The grounds were all light with Japanese lanterns, making a very pretty effect. All the guests arrived masked and the prize was awarded to Miss Mattie Mortenson for being the best masked. An interesting program was rendered, which was as follows: Instrumental solo, Johnnie Hoist; vocal solo, Mrs. J. A. Swall; recitation, Miss Perry; vocal solo, Fletcher Pomeroy; vocal solo, Miss Riddell. Mr. Blake Kendall acted as toastmaster. Mr. Nickerson toasted the class. HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Fred Greenwood and Oden Gibbs are the latest additions and swell the numbers on the roll to 115. They go into the ninth year class, making the number in that class 59.

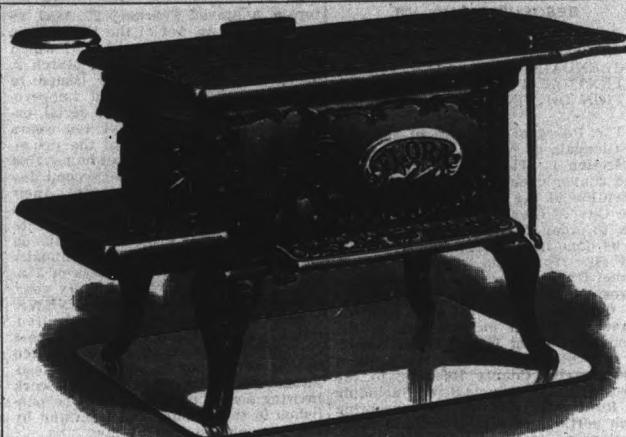

The net returns of the Art Exhibit were, for the High School, $23.65; for the Grammar School, $22.45. A number of fine pictures have been selected and will decorate the walls. The board of trustees will bear the expense for framing them.

At its last meeting the board decided on the purchase of more desks and also shelves for the library. They will also provide another basket ball court for the girls and will have the Stepper block which they have secured for a playground, cleared off and put in order.

About 30 of the students went over to Whittier last Saturday to play the High School basket ball team there. It resulted in a victory for Whittier by a score of 43 to 28, but the boys felt that it was no disgrace to be beaten by such a strong team as that of the Whittier High. It was the hardest fought game of the season and the work of the Glendale boys was a credit to their school. Stine and Goodsell played a remarkably good game.

On account of the rain the game had to be played in the gymnasium of the Whittier college, which was not as satisfactory as the outdoor court, but probably had no effect on the result.

In the morning, at tennis, Walton and McPeak played two Whittier boys in singles, Walton winning from his opponent and McPeak losing. They lost in playing doubles. The return tennis match will be played at Glendale Nov. 9th. Next Saturday on the grounds here at 2:30 p. m., the Glendale boys will play the San Pedro High School basket ball team. It is hoped that the general public and parents in particular, will take a greater interest in these contests and encourage the players by their presence.
